PREFACE

Things have been changing at a very fast pace in the world of books. The changes that have mani- fested during the last three decades alone have assumed the proportions of a revolution. Though the revolution has so far been confined to a few advanced countries, some of the developing countries like India have also made considerable progress in this field.

Education has received far greater attention in the post-independence period than at any time in the past. The percentage of literacy which stood at about 12% in 1947 is now estimated to be 36.17%. The number of school and college-going boys and girls has increased manifold. Research laboratories have been established in various parts of the country.

All this has resulted in an ever-increasing demand for books. The book trade has tried its best to cope up with this mounting demand. As a result India, at present, is one among the 7 leading book producers in the world. About 16,000 titles are produced in the country every year. Though books are being produced in all Indian languages the largest number of publications is in English. English continues to play an important role as the language of inter-state communication and higher education.

In India the need for bibliographic literature has been felt for quite some time but the vastness of the task has deterred even the most resourceful editors/publishers to undertake such publications. It is towards the fulfilment of this need that the compiler feels great pleasure in putting forth the Indian Books in Print—1981, which contains nearly 80,000 Indian books in print in English language published upto December, 1980. Since it was not possible to cover such a large number of entries in one volume, the present bibliography has been divided in three volumes: Volume 1—Authors; Volume 2—Titles; and Volume 3—Subject Guide. Volume 3 is classified according to the Dewey Decimal Classification with feature headings Directory of Indian Publishers with complete addresses is given at the end of Volume 3.

While utmost care has been taken to ensure accuracy of entry, compiler/publisher will not be responsible for any error that may have inadvertantly occurred.

The compiler welcomes suggestions from the patrons and users for improvement in the subsequent editions of Indian Books in Print.

Thanks are due to all colleagues and friends whose assistance in multifarious forms have gone to the making of the present venture a reality.
